I. INTRODUCTION

By the state of the power of finance, they are, however, also an attempt by the state to leverage financial and filter global capitalism's transformative forces. The ability of financial markets threatens governments around the globe,the most conservative. The institutional logics of the capitalist market and the bureaucratic state have been pushed into association at an increasing rate through processes we have come to know as 'globalization' and 'financialization.By (Ashby H. 2010).For example by(Richard L. 2016) Agreed that.Capitalism global corporations and global influence are leading the embodiment of virtual capitalism in the modern world. the population is capable of creating enough food and fuels to support not only itself, but a growing majority of the 6 billion people now living on earth.

1.2.Background Of Study

According to Peter Drahos(2014) Regulatory capitalism is a capitalist order in which actors, both state and non-state, use a wide array of techniques to influence market behaviour. Many players get themselves in regulatory relationships, relationships in which they are sometimes the regulator and in other contexts the regulate.According to (Thomas Paster:2016) These two dimensions - adaptation and influence - result in four ideal types: business-dominated social compromise, imposed social compromise, business dominance, and political confrontation. Examples from welfare state history illustrate these four types. two-dimensional typology of business-politics relations that combines the Schumpeterian focus on adaptation with the Marxian focus on influence.

Another Study by Chris Corin ,& Terry Fiehn(2011) explain that,the Tsarist pre-revolutionary period. Major themes include - the nature of Tsarist rule in Russia and the causes and consequences of the 1905 the Russian Revolution in 1917. Lenin's and Stalin's Communist regimes. learning approaches, including decision-making exercisesRussia under Tsarism and Communism 1881-1953 this title is a comprehensive core text on Russian history from 1881 the bestselling Communist Russia under Lenin.

For examples by Cheikh Anta Diop P&TAngryindian (2012)he Said that.why Africans and other minorities are still not fully accepted. A difficult, but possible process. The slavery and genocide of Native and imported Indigenous peoples, for the colonialist.They did not know enough about Indigenous Peoples in North America or Indigenous Africans.To be blunt, they are romantic, anachronistic flashbacks to the past, when

White men ruled without the need to explain themselves and Negroes, 'Indians', Asians and women. While this civilized objective is indeed fundamentally important in order for modern society to move forward, it is equally important,

1.3. Purpose of Study

The Study emphasis on politics why democracy delimma and Communist delimma with regards global governance. According to Melvin I. (2001) At the same time, the citizenry must feel secure that constitutional constraints ensure that the president or prime minister is always the servant, and not the master, of the people. All modern societies must have a chief executive able to carry out the responsibilities of government, from the simple administration. In a democracy, a president must rule through or her political skills, establishing a framework of cooperation with the legislature and above all with the people. For example by JAYADEVA (2017) explain that ,positions of General Secretary of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) Central Committee President. He consolidated his position and today chairs thirteen central leading groups overseeing all crucial aspects of the state including direct control over the security apparatus, security and the economy. ideology to promote political stability and regime survival.

II. LITERATURE REVIEWS

Another study by Karen MacGregor (2009) Argued that, productivity, work-generation and distribution of wealth among the middle classes of Brazil, India and China - massive development - and at the same time other countries," with Africa worst hit. global informational capitalism was the extreme volatility of the global financial markets and the inability of the system to regulate the whole series of mechanisms that had been unleashed by massive technological investment. According to Jomo Kwame Sundaram & Anis Chowdhury (2017) papers explain that, the International Organization for Migration (IOM), at least 2,247 people have died or are missing after trying to enter Europe via Spain, Italy or Greece in the first half of this year. Last year, 5,096 deaths were recorded. SYDNEY and KUALA LUMPUR, Sep 19 (IPS) refuge in Europe. the British ,Libya, claimed in April that as many as a million more were already on their way to Libya,

For examples by Shailja & Manoj Joshi (2014) Argued that, Automobile industry is one of the key drivers to a growing economy and plays a pivotal role in country's rapid economic and industrial development. According to Sarita Devi (2015) explain that, The automotive industry is a sector that combines innovation, creativity, science, technology, ideas that bring momentum to the economy, people and the whole nation. The automotive industry has widely accepted this Fans growth is considered as the most preferred method to measure success of social

According to Aleksandar Arsov (2014) papers said that, The BMW, one of the automaker giants, could retain its' profitability. The automobile industry today is the most lucrative industry. The financial performance of BMW AG. Xetra is going up. Another study by Anumesh D (2017) Agree that. Globalization are very evident in automobile industry, with the entry of many prominent foreign manufacturers. Manufacturers such as Ford, General Motors, Honda, Toyota, Suzuki, Hyundai, Renault, Mitsubishi, Benz, BMW, Volkswagen and Nissan set up there

2.1. Global Moneytary industry and Global Humanitarian Regimes

For examples by Jomo Kwame & Anis Chowdhury (2017) agreed that, the G8 countries reneged on their 2005 Gleneagles pledge to provide an extra US$25 billion a year for Africa as part of a US$50 billion increase in financial assistance to "make poverty history". Africa, without fundamental policy changes. unemployed in the absence of a decent social protection system. Africa's 'working poor' and underemployment ratios are much higher. South Africa, the most developed economy in Sub Saharan Africa

According to Akhtar Hossain ,Anis (1981) Argued, that, While money Short-run Stabilization role has received much attention In the Developed worlds since the great depression of the 1930, it is money long-run growth -promoting role that has been the predominant focus In developing Countries. However More importantly, what role does money and finance play in promoting the long-run growth of an economy. These are questions that have fascinated both and policy makers ever since money become an essential feature of an economy.

According to António Guterres (2017) Trust within and among countries is being driven down by those who demonize and divide. However The global economy is increasingly integrated, but our sense of global community may be disintegrating Societies are fragmented. Political discourse is polarized. Nothing justifies terrorism no cause, no grievance. Terrorism continues to take a rising toll of death and devastation.

2.2.Global Finance public debt and private debt Reforms

For example by Edigbonya(2017)Argue that ,the dimensions of low-interest rate, government policies, financial incentives, rating agencies, regulations. The Study examines the fundamental causes of the recent financial crisis, its effects and how the law can assist by way of regulatory reform to prevent future occurrence. According to Joseph J. Norton(2016) the new UK regulatory scheme and the collateral issues considered in this Study.The Study attempts to reevaluate the United Kingdom's unified financial regulator, the Financial Services Authority (FSA), as a viable international regulatory model for global financial sector reform structures.contemplates two important collateral regulatory issues: (first) the unitary versus functional regulation debate; and (secondly) the interfacing of a mega-regulator model with the need for a modern deposit insurance compensation scheme.

For example by Douglas W. &Young Park(2010) reforming the international and regional financial architecture.This implies global reforms should be complemented and augmented by national and regional reforms, taking into account the very different characteristics of emerging economies' financial systems from advanced economies. Study by Jomo Kwame & Anis Chowdhury (2017)papers Said that, The World Bank, the African Development Bank and most Western donors supported the SAPs, despite United Nations' warnings about their adverse social consequences. the World Bank's Poverty in Rising Africa, the number of Africans in extreme poverty increased by more than 100 million between 1990 and 2012 to about 330 million.

According to Eric J. Pan(2009) recommendations, the paper advocates the application of objectives-based regulation and consolidation of regulatory authority in the hands of the national government. The Study breaks down the basic elements of an optimal financial regulatory system, identifying key regulatory objectives and systemic characteristics, relevant regulatory strategies, and optimal organizational approaches. the regulatory systems of Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia, the United States, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Japan, and The Netherlands to identify common themes and draw lessons for Canada's regulatory reform project.

III. GLOBAL GOVERNANCEDEMOCRAT DILEMMA AND COMMUNIST

According to Donald L. Horowitz (1992)However, South Africa Experience gained in Nigeria, Botswana, Zimbabwe, and other divided societies around the world is relevant because, as South Africa leaves apartheid behind, it will still confront problems of pluralism: racial, ethnic, and ideological. Constitution makers the best chance for a democratic future. South Africa is mostly considered an isolated instance, a country unlike any other. Drawing on his extensive experience of racially and ethnically divided societies, According to Juan J. Linz (1926)Argue the Spanish case must be a republic Country the only one in which parliamentarism has given evidence of its worth. Chile, South Korea, Brazil, Turkey, and Argentina, policymakers and constitutional experts relative merits of different types of democratic regimes.the world's nations turn to democracy, interest in alternative constitutional forms and arrangements has expanded well beyond academic circles. Another Study by Horowitz &Gail M. (1991) papers explain the competing political groupings, nor does he have any illusions about the probability of a stable democratic outcome.,argues against consociationalism and electoral systems based on proportional representation or Westminster.Drawing on the comparative experience of severely divided societies, including Nigeria, Malaysia, Sri Lanka and Northern Ireland,

According to Nicoletta Ferro(2004) the good versus the bad over international business transactions, negotiations, advertisement and supply chain management taking place in foreign settings,the globe, multinational and translational companies conduct their business operations in foreign settings, especially in developing countries and in countries in transition from Communist regimes. For example by Anca Parmena (2010) the dilemmas of the European governance the liberal reforms and the national interest. the 2009 European Parliament, particular attention has been devoted to the discussions for improving the European democracy. However European Union in the field of the democracy promotion from a historical and political perspective.

According to Robert Eisinger(2011) however episodic contentious discourse allows political actors and the mass public to hear, read and learn each other's attitudes and perspectives. Internet civility and incivility, including the theories that suggest Internet incivility may enhance and not hinder democratic discourse the study examines determine that while there are numerous examples of incivility, the preponderance majority of dialogue is civil in nature. According to Grant M. Hayden(2004)Argue that, This dilemma is, in part, due to the strict application of the one person, one vote standard. to help resolve a significant problem in minority representation. The Study Founding that, The creation of majority-minority districts has had the unintended consequence of forcing minority voting rights advocates to choose between increasing the number of minority office holders and increasing the number of Democrats,

REPORTED BY REGION AND THE WORLD(2017) Russian President Vladimir Putin, Chinese President Xi Jinping, and other leaders of the BRICS Brazil, Russia, India, China, and South Africa plan to attend the summit in Xiamen, China, on September 4 and 5.However A new development bank established by Russia, China, India, and Brazil is providing three of those countries with $1.4 billion in loans ahead of a meeting of the major developing countries next week.

3.1. Ethnic mandingka delimma west african

Another Study Ziya Öniş (2016) Agreed that, China and the durability of its highly successful model of capitalism poses a central challenge in a rapidly shifting global order where democratic capitalism .but Liberal democracy is under challenge on a global scale. The global financial crisis has accelerated and aggravated the crisis of liberal democracy in the global North. For example by Valentin e(2015) Agreed that ,in West Africa: Maninka (or Malinke), Bamana (or Bambara), Jula, Mandinka, Xasonka,spoken, by up to 40 million people. forms of Malian Bamana and Guinean Maninka are included.and they are reorganization politics .

According to Andrey Alexandrovich (2014) To manage attitude to different migration groups provoking conflicts, nations with their own material and spiritual cultural backgrounds inhabit the territory of the country. new ethnicity within already existing multiethnic organization of regional community. Dilemma of local authorities is to improve demographic situation to migration policy being the only source.Reported by ECONOMIC COMMUNITY (2012) Argued that .Alassane Dramane OUATTARA, President of the Republic of Cote d'Ivoire and current Chairman of ECOWAS, the Authority of Heads of State and Government of the Economic Community of West African States ECOWAS held an Extraordinary Session,

3.2. Political ,Utilitarianism

According to Marco Fabbri&Hoepfner (2017) The majority of participants self-report that willingness to educate and be a good example is the most important reason for their decision to abide by the law. Therefore theories of compliance predict that, apart from utilitarian considerations, individual decisions to respect or break the law account for virtuous motives and non-utilitarian willingness to promote the social good. According to JEFFRIE G. MURPHY (1973) All the same wars, particularly modern wars, seem to call for the cleanup of the innocuous, Through antiviral terror bombing. Therefore war at least modern war must be wrong. To be defined as the intentional and uncorked killing of the guiltless; and it is true by definition that murder is wrong. The Study conclusion that,The notions of innocence and guilt seem most at home in a legal context and, somewhat less comfortable, in a moral context, with respect to those who are legally war criminals under international law on uk and Arab saudiFor example by GREG HEFFER, POLITICAL REPORTER (2016) Explain that,Middle East Eye a comparison of punishments within the brutal so-called Islamic State with those dished out by Saudi Arabia.

According to Cheikh Anta Diop& TAngryindian (2012)explain.that,sociopolitical poverty in White societies, is simply not true. And this is fundamentally why events like 'Black History Month' cannot, in any logical sense, be regarded as anything other Even then, after generations of working for and with Whites, after fighting for them and dying side-by-side with them in every war they have ever undertaken, rightly or wrongly, White people must explain in clear terms .however White European exploitation, abuse and marginalisation, there is very little critical, mainstream What happened to the victims is not an issue anyone wants to discuss.

3.3. Good Governance

Damian Ildigwe (2017)Argue that, the correlation that subsists between good governance and sustainable development. However such that given that sustainable development is a function of good governance,velopment literature to couple the concept of good governance with the concept of sustainable development. The Study investigates that, direct correlation between diplomacy and good governance on the one hand and good governance and sustainable development on the other,For example by Lidia Lo Schiavo, Pierre (2016) by the entry of the concept of inequality within this discourse for the paradigm shift away from hegemonic neoliberal consensus. the main international political economic institutions the World Bank, the International Monetary Fund, along with the OECD and the UN as forums of discussion, specialized agencies and, above all, as policy-makers

According to Peter Odion (2016) Historical analysis as a diagnostic tool of the causes of corporate governance ailment must be acknowledged. So the Nigerian banking sector. As a consequence of the prevailing low historical intelligence, measures are nevertheless to be instituted towards mitigating the inadequate corporate governance which contributed to past failures. Another Study by Meetika Srivastava(2010) The links between good governance and human rights can be organized around four areas which are democratic institutions, service delivery, rule of law and anti-corruption. public administration "good governance" is a recent entrant within a context. The Study Conclusion explores the different definitions of the term "good governance" given by various international organisations and an attempt has been made to explain in detail the meaning, elements and characteristics of good governance.

For example by Susana Camargo (2013) New challenges call for new solutions and different ways of using already existing resources, tools and mechanisms. International Committees on the subject and especially its New Delhi Declaration of Principles of International Law as Relating to Sustainable Development. Study By Sandeep Parekh(2005) makes suggestions for the removal of these penalties and instead let the markets decide whether to penalize companies which do not have these process oriented safeguards in place. The Study examines that, the Indian and International capital markets, regulators and legislatures have increasingly turned towards making corporate governance standards mandatory and have attached penalties to violation of these 'corporate governance' 'guidelines'.

Another Study by Cheikh P&TAngryindian (2012)further explains that.Africans, First Nations Peoples, Arabs, Asians, the Ulster-Scots, Italians, Poles and many western European nationalities have all, to one degree or another, at one time or another, faced significant ethnic stratification and social discrimination from the anglicised provincialism brought along with the first uk .why is it so difficult to understand that White Americans today also suffer from a similarly acute and equally irrational form of ethnically biased nationalistic selective memory.

IV. CONCLUSION AND FINDING

The Study Finding that ,West Africa .Maninka, by up to 40 to 100 million people. forms of Malian Bamana and Guinean Maninka The Study Conclusion that Developing Nations G20 ,Political leadership Capitalism Dilemma With Racial Global Factors of Guinea Conakry west africa why democract delimma and Communist delimma with regards global governance. the president or prime minister is always the servant, and not the master, of the people.service delivery, rule of law and anti-corruption. public administration “good governance” is a recent entrant within a context. The Study Conclusion explores the different definitions of the term “good governance” given by various international organisations,context, with respect to those who are legally war criminals under international law.
