

An untold love story between two mature lovers in search of happiness : ‘She says she is addicted to him, crazy in love, drunk in his love , soulmates , their personalities fit,’ ‘he says he will always find her beautiful and treat her like a Queen and wants again to have children with her, he says he will accept her however she is when she comes back to him, he says he loves her manners, her perfect imperfections and their baby love Oonagh Amber and he accepts to take the blame and apologises if the world laughed at her, for her career, health, broken previous wedding ’. ‘He says he is here to become her husband, for eternity: An apology Poem from a sincere lover

¹Yudhistir S.M.F. Jugessur, Researcher

ABSTRACT: This paper is about Apology poem from a lover to the woman he loves. They say love endures everything but from time to time, one lover must step up to acknowledge mistakes done. Love and marriage are based on trust, care and understanding and no place for ego. The paper relates to two poems. "I Am Sorry" by Weate (2011) and "I'm Sorry" from Jaz (2008). Acknowledging mistakes in a couple, among lovers , particularly among mature couples, is a form of respect and love for long lasting couples. An untold love story between two mature lovers in search of happiness. As Jaz (2008) said I am sorry for the past and Weate (2011) said I love you with every part of me. Increasing understanding and tolerance of imperfection results in enhanced relationship satisfaction and quality (Algoe, 2019; Gordon, & Chen,2016).

KEYWORDS: apology, mature lovers, couple, wedding

Date of Submission: 02-04-2024

Date of acceptance: 12-04-2024

I. INTRODUCTION

Mature lovers are two adults who are at age to be parents but for reasons, fate had decided are single and want to be happy again within a wedding. Both legal and Civil. An untold love story between two mature lovers in search of happiness : ‘She says she is addicted to him, crazy in love, drunk in his love , soulmates , their personalities fit,’ ‘he says he will always find her beautiful and treat her like a Queen and wants again to have children with her, he says he will accept her however she is when she comes back to him, he says he loves her manners, her perfect imperfections and their baby love Oonagh Amber and he accepts to take the blame and apologises if the world laughed at her, for her career, health, broken previous wedding ’. ‘He says he is here to become her husband, for eternity. Being sorry and apologizing , and accepting to take the burden of the blame is an act of true love.

II. DISCUSSION

The first poem is from Weate (2011) and is entitled "I Am Sorry."

The lover shares each others pain.

Every time I see the pain in your eyes,

A little part of my heart dies.

No matter how hard and how often you try,

All I seem to do is make you cry.

You risk so much and take such chance

To share your heart and your romance.

You share your hopes and dreams and fears

And let me in to all that's dear.

All I seem to do is be mean and cold,

To fail to cherish, fail to hold.

I seem to fail to put you first.

You act your best; I am my worst.

My mouth contradicts my heart.
My actions and thoughts so far apart.
I love you with every part of me,
Yet act so cruel and thoughtlessly.
I dream of you all night and day
And hang on every word you say,
Yet all you see is selfishness and arrogance,
Casual disdain and ignorance.
Assumption and judgment and everything's a test.
No matter what you do, you're always second best.
No matter how hard you try, it's never enough.
I never hear your protestations of love.

I say I love you and cherish all of our dreams,
Yet act as if I can't hear your screams
Of need and want and stability and trust.
My plans never materialize, my promises rust.
I scream at myself at how stupid I am
For risking your love, for risking your hand,
And I pray every day that you never see
That I need you more than you need me.
I bare my heart and my soul to you
To say sorry for what I did and for what I do.
I have no excuses and hide no more.
All I can offer is my love for evermore.

The second poem is "I'm Sorry" from Jaz (2008)

I'm saying sorry first.
I'm saying sorry last.
I'm saying sorry for the future,
but mainly for the past.
I'm sorry that I wasn't there for you,
and I'm sorry for not listening
when you needed it the most.
You were right, and you had the right to be mad.
I'm sorry that you felt the need to apologize,
and I'm sorry that you were hurt.
I'm sorry that I can only see the good and always try to avoid the bad.
I'm saying sorry for all my mistakes.
I'm saying sorry for being blinded,
blinded by the perfect thought of you and me,

when really we don't have a chance.
I'm the stupid one.
I let you down, and I feel it deep within me.
We both made some errors and said something wrong, but that's how life is.
Nobody's perfect,
not even me and you,
so I'm sorry for that took
and I'm sorry for everything but ...
Please forgive me.
We can change things back to normal.
I'm sorry if this is not what you want,
But it's the only thing I can think of.

III. CONCLUSION

Love is the answer for any sorrow, sadness, past mistakes, betrayal and deceptions. According to the Triangular Theory of Love (Sternberg, 1986) and Sound Relationship House Theory (Gottman & Gottman, 2017) through improved communication and understanding, couples increase intimacy, which strengthens the cornerstone of their relationship (Acker & Davis, 1992; Gottman & Gottman, 2017; Madey & Rodgers, 2009; Sternberg, 1986). Also, positive interaction tends to consist of gratitude, praise or loving language (Algoe, 2019; Algoe, Kurtz, & Hilaire, 2016). Understanding the partner's past is also a form of communication and love bonding between a couple. Increasing understanding and tolerance of imperfection results in enhanced relationship satisfaction and quality (Algoe, 2019; Gordon, & Chen, 2016).

REFERENCES

- [1]. Acker, M., & Davis, M. H. (1992). Intimacy, passion and commitment in adult romantic relationships: A test of the triangular theory of love. Journal of Social and Personal Relationships, 9(1), 21–50. doi:10.1177/0265407592091002
- [2]. Algoe, S. B. (2019). Positive interpersonal processes. Current Directions in Psychological Science, 28(2), 183–188. doi:10.1177/0963721419827272
- [3]. Algoe, S. B., Kurtz, L. E., & Hilaire, N. M. (2016). Putting the “you” in “thank you” examining other-praising behavior as the active relational ingredient in expressed gratitude. Social Psychological and Personality Science, 7(7), 658–666. doi:10.1177/1948550616651681
- [4]. Gordon, A. M., & Chen, S. (2016). Do you get where I'm coming from?: Perceived understanding buffers against the negative impact of conflict on relationship satisfaction. Journal of Personality and Social Psychology, 110(2), 239–260. doi:10.1037/pspi0000039
- [5]. Gottman, J. M. & Gottman, J. (2017). The natural principles of love. Journal of Family Theory & Review, 9(1), 7–26. doi:10.1111/jftr.12182
- [6]. Jaz (2008) "I'm Sorry." Family Friend Poems, February 10, 2008. Available at <https://www.familyfriendpoems.com/poem/nobody-perfect>
- [7]. Madey, S. F., & Rodgers, L. (2009). The effect of attachment and Sternberg's triangular theory of love on relationship satisfaction. Individual Differences Research, 7(2), 76–84. doi:10.5964/ijpr.v9i1.157
- [8]. Sternberg, R. J. (1986). A triangular theory of love. Psychological Review, 93(2), 119–135. doi:10.1037/0033-295X.93.2.119
- [9]. Weate (2011) "I Am Sorry." Family Friend Poems, May 20, 2011. Available at <https://www.familyfriendpoems.com/poem/i-am-sorry-6>